GENERAL INFORMATION

The University and the College of Law

The University - Past

The University of Florida is a combined state University and land-grant college located in the northern center of the state. Its beginning is traced back to privately-owned Kingsbury Academy, established in 1853, and merged with state-owned East Florida Seminary following the Civil War. A few years later the passage of the Morril Act provided lands for state institutions of higher learning which would promote agriculture, mechanical arts and military science, resulting in the beginnings of the College of Agriculture, the College of Engineering, and the Agricultural Experiment Station.

By 1905 there were a half-dozen state-supported institutions of higher learning in Florida, located in various parts of the state and struggling for existence. At that time the Florida Legislature took a step unprecedented in the history of education in any state by passing the Buckman Act, which abolished the six State Colleges and provided for the establishment of two new institutions, of which the University of Florida was one. It was established for men, at Gainesville, and placed under the direction of the Board of Control, a body created by the Buckman Act. The seven members of the board represented the seven geographical sections of the state, and served without compensation, except for travel and incidental expense incurred in the performance of duty. In 1947 the University was made coeducational. The thirteen member Board of Regents replaced the Board of control in 1965. An additional regent has represented students since 1977.

The University - Present

Florida's first, the University of Florida is also one of America's truly distinctive universities. Along with Ohio State University and the University of Minnesota, the University of Florida offers more academic programs on a single campus than any of the nation's other universities, private and public. It is also among the nation's 25 largest universities; yet its division into 19 colleges and schools, with their 140 departments, gives students the opportunity to know and work closely with most of their classmates and teachers. Its location in Florida's University City – Gainesville – dedicated from its founding to serve as a home away from home for college students – adds immeasurably to the educational and social opportunities for students.

In short, the University of Florida is a residential campus, with rich resources available because of its size, that provides a learning and living environment for the whole person; Daily contact – in class, clubs, between classes and in residence halls and apartments – with other students from every spectrum of society and with virtually every career goal known to humanity. Daily opportunities to attend concerts, lectures, theatre productions, art shows, seminars, athletic contests, and a myriad of other events featuring nationally and internationally known talents. Daily communications with a faculty that is comprised of some of the nation's leading scholars in their fields, working in laboratories and libraries among the best in the nation. More than 1,400 faculty members and graduate students are awarded research and training grants, annually ranking the University of Florida among the nation's top 40 research universities.

Leadership Training

One of the most important facets of a complete education that the University of Florida offers is leadership training. Its results are proven. More than half of Florida's Cabinet Members, including the Governor, are University of Florida graduates, as are approximately one-third of the state senators, members of the State House of Representatives, Floridians in the U.S. Congress and State Supreme Court justices. Half of the ten persons named in 1978 as Florida's most influential governmental, professional and business persons had attended the University of Florida. Thousands of other University of Florida graduates occupy key positions in every known professional endeavor throughout the state, in the nation and in many parts of the world.

There are reasons behind the University of Florida leadership success. The contained campus – in a larger community whose principal focus is on the University – provides thousands of leadership opportunities. Student government at the University of Florida is one of the nation's most independent and influential. Every college has its own student council. Almost every committee for governance of the University as a whole have student members. The University turns many of its activities over to students to implement. Students serve on advisory boards and councils in city and county government. Hundreds of students are employed in career-developing positions and serve internships in Gainesville area institutions. Virtually every academic offering provides opportunities for membership in chapters of national student organizations. Churches and civic groups in the community provide special programs and opportunities just for University of Florida students. More than 500 participate in a student volunteer action organization, providing companionship and assistance to children, the elderly, the handicapped, the incarcerated, the underprivileged and the lonely in 14 separate programs. It is the largest student volunteer action group in the nation. A nationally recognized Student Services Office offers counseling programs for dozens of special student problems, both academic and personal, as well as leadership training programs.

Setting and Environment

The University of Florida is located in Gainesville, a city of 86,929 situated in north central Florida, midway between the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico. The location enables residents to be within easy access of the beaches while living in an area with gently rolling hills. Interstate 75 and good airline service keep the University in the mainstream of commerce midway between Atlanta and Miami.

In addition to a moderate climate, Gainesville offers many other advantages to students of the University. An 18-hole golf course is on the campus, and swimming and boating accommodations are available at nearby springs and rivers. The lakes in the vicinity abound in fresh water fish, while the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico are within a two hours' drive.

Activities

The University and the community provide many recreational and social opportunities. More than 16,000 people a day use the centrally-located student union on campus. Outdoor recreational courts, pools and fields abound, not only on campus but throughout the community. More than 1,000 persons are able to engage simultaneously in eight different athletic and recreational activities in the new Stephen C. O'Connell Student Activities Center. Entertainment of every description is available nightly and every weekend. This includes fare both on the campus and the community which gears itself to student interests because of the preponderance of students in it. A full program of men's and women's intercollegiate athletics insures one or more major spectator games per week. More than seventy-five percent of the Student Body participated last year on 1401 intramural teams. Gainesville is in the heart of Florida's rolling woods, lakes, springs and river country. And it is equidistant – only a two hour drive – from the fishing and boating Gulf Coast and the swimming, surfing and beaching Atlantic Coast. Big name music stars and their bands are brought to campus for concerts almost weekly by Student Government Productions. Students themselves have numerous opportunities to perform in local musical groups and stage plays, to exhibit their arts and crafts, to write for several student-operated publications and to pursue hobby interests of every description.

The College of Law

A Short History

THE COLLEGE OF LAW, founded in 1909, began its work in the Thomas Hall Dormitory for men under the deanship of Albert J. Farrah, a graduate of the University of Michigan, who served from 1909 until 1912.

Following the administration of Dean Farrah, Thomas W. Hughes served as Dean from 1912 until 1915. The Law Building, built in 1914, was one of the first permanent units on the campus.

Harry R. Trusler, also a graduate of the University of Michigan, was appointed to the deanship in 1915 and served in the capacity until 1947. During his administration the College of Law was accredited by the New York State Board of Regents in 1917, admitted to membership in the Association of American Law Schools in 1920, and recognized as an approved school by the American Bar Association in 1925, the same year in which it opened its doors to women. In 1933 the requirements for admission were increased to require an academic degree.

Henry A. Fenn, a former Professor of Law and Assistant Dean of Yale Law School, became Dean in 1948 and served in that capacity until 1958. During his deanship the curriculum was expanded and strengthened, and an individualized program of research, writing and instruction was inaugurated, as well as a seminar program in Legal Ethics which received national recognition. In 1955, the College was granted a charter by the Order of the Coif, a national legal scholarship society, in recognition of its high academic standards.

Dean Fenn elected to return to full-time teaching in the fall of 1958 and Frank E. Maloney succeeded him as dean, after serving as acting dean for a year.

Under Dean Maloney's guidance, the University of Florida Law Association was formed in 1960. The Association has established substantial loan funds to attract highly qualified students to the College. Largely as a result of Dean Maloney's resourcefulness and untiring effort, the College occupied its present academic building in February 1969. This building is the first unit of the Spessard L. Holland Law Center. Present facilities include classroom, courtroom, and administrative space, as well as a library collection in excess of 330,000 volumes.

Dean Maloney elected to return to full-time teaching in the fall of 1970. Former Assistant Dean E. L. Hunt served as Acting Dean until the appointment in winter, 1971, of Dean Joseph R. Julin, formerly Associate Dean and Professor of Law at the University of Michigan Law School.

During Dean Julin's tenure the College experienced impressive qualitative growth as evidenced by creation of the College's Center for Governmental Responsibility and its highly successful Master of Laws in Taxation program.

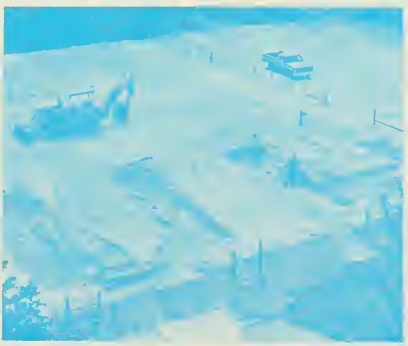
Upon Dean Julin's resignation from the deanship and return to teaching in March, 1980, Associate Dean E. L. Hunt was named Interim Dean.

Under Dean Hunt's direction, the College of Law changed from a quarter to a semester system and made major curriculum revisions to improve the quality of legal education at the Holland Law Center. In addition, Dean Hunt, together with Dean Read, played a major role in obtaining funding for the expansion of the Law Center facilities.

On July 1, 1981 Frank T. Read assumed the deanship. Dean Read formerly served as Associate Dean and Professor of Law at Duke University, Dean and Professor of Law at the University of Tulsa, and as Dean of the Indiana University School of Law, Indianapolis. He is helping to guide the College of Law into greater national prominence in the 1980's.

The Law Center is nearing completion with construction of the long-awaited Bruton-Geer Hall. The 40,000-square-foot building was included in the original plans for the Law Center. Donations from alumni, friends and faculty of the College of Law and a $1.5 million appropriation from the State Legislature have made possible the $3.7 million facility.

The two-story Bruton-Geer Hall which will adjoin the present structure from the south and will include a courtroom complex, a 7,000-square-foot library, a legal writing area, a suite for the Center for Governmental Responsibility, placement center, legal aid clinic, alumni affairs suite, and dining and recreation areas. The building is named for the parents of Judge and Mrs. J. D. Bruton, Jr. of Plant City, Florida.



ADMISSIONS AND DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Admission-Juris Doctor

Preparation For The Study of Law

A lawyer's education may be divided into pre-legal training, law school career, and post-legal education. Pre-legal training involving a set undergraduate program has deliberately not been prescribed by the College of Law. The faculty feels that in view of the diverse nature of the lawyer's tasks, the best program is similarly one of broad diversification in which the student gains a knowledge of the formative processes of our civilization, the nature of people and their institutions, and something of the technology of our age; the capacity for understanding, independent and challenging thinking; and, finally, the ability to express oneself clearly and forcefully in the English language.

Since concepts expressed in words are the primary tools of the legal profession, it cannot be emphasized too strongly that the beginning law student must bring into legal education the fundamental skills necessary for effective oral and written communication. Students may also find that an understanding of basic accounting principles will be helpful in some areas of the curriculum.

For additional information, see the current Pre-Law Handbook, published annually, prepared by the Law School Admission Council and the Association of American Law Schools. This books includes material on lawyers and the law, pre-law preparation, application to law schools, the study of law, and individualized information on most American law schools. It may be obtained at college book stores or ordered from the Law School Admission Council, Box 2000, Newtown, PA. 18940.

Admission Procedure

Before an application can be considered, the following documents must be received in a timely manner by the College of Law: Law School application forms, Law School Application Matching Form (LSA Matching Form). and LSAT/LSDAS report from Law School Admission Service (LSAS) and, if the applicant has attended another law school, a written statement concerning his or her previous attendance at the other law school plus a complete transcript and a certificate from the Dean, indicating the applicant's class rank and certifying that he or she is in good academic standing at that institution.

All applicants (including present and former University of Florida students) must register with the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS). Applications for admission of non-University of Florida students must be accompanied by an application fee of $15.00. This application fee is not refundable.

For Beginning Students: Beginning students are admitted only in August and January. Applications may not be filed more than one year in advance of the intended month of entry.

Applications and the LSA Matching Forms cannot be accepted for consideration after February 1 and July 1 for the following fall and spring classes respectively. Early completion of applications within the periods specified is strongly recommended inasmuch as all spaces may be filled prior to established deadline dates.

For Advanced Standing: Usually, only those applicants who have completed the first year of law school are accepted. In no instance will a candidate for admission with advanced standing be considered until academic evaluation has been made for at least fourteen quarter hours or twelve semester hours by the law school from which transfer is sought. Transfer may be effected in August, January or May. The completed application must be on hand on or before: July 1 for the fall term; October 1 for the spring term; and March 1 for the summer term. Acceptance of a transfer applicant on the basis of the first semester or quarter's academic evaluation is conditioned upon his or her maintaining the Law School average or class rank prescribed above. No more than 28 semester or 42 quarter hours will be transferred. The completed application consists of:

(1) University of Florida College of Law application forms, completed and signed;
(2) a law school transcript with grades for at least 14 quarter or 12 semester hours;
(3) a copy of the applicant's LSAT/LSDAS report from the law school from which transfer is sought;
(4) a letter from the dean of the applicant's law school, indicating the applicant's class rank and certifying that he or she is in good academic standing and eligible to continue studies there; and,
(5) a statement to the Admissions Committee relating your reasons for now wanting to attend the University of Florida College of Law.

All students must complete a total of 86 semester hours credit for the Juris Doctor. A minimum of 58 must be completed in this College. Additionally, students must satisfy the prescribed first-year curriculum, as well as the Professional Responsibility and Advanced Writing requirements.

All completed materials must be received in room 164C Holland Law Center, Gainesville, Florida 32611 prior to the application deadline.

Admission Requirements

Beginning Students: All applicants for admission to the College of Law must hold (prior to beginning classes) a baccalaureate degree from a qualified institution and a satisfactory score on the Law School Admission Test (LSAT).

The minimum acceptable score on the LSAT required for admission varies with the total grade point average achieved by the applicant on all college work attempted by the applicant prior to the receipt of the bachelor's degree. The mean LSAT score and overall undergraduate average of classes currently being selected are 657 on the old scale/ 39 on the new scale and 3.43 (4.00 system), respectively. In the absence of documentation that a candidate was ill, or that some other unusual condition occurred at one of the testings, multiple LSAT scores are averaged. Standards for non-Florida residents are substantially higher than those for residents.

Law School Admission Test: The LSAT is given by Educational Testing Service in cooperation with leading law schools throughout the country and should be taken one year prior to the desired entry date. A fee of $20 in addition to a Basic Registration Fee of $20 is charged by ETS. LSAT/LSDAS Registration Forms and LSA Matching Forms are found in the Law School Admission Bulletin and LSAT Preparation Material which can be obtained from all law schools and undergraduate institutions. Tests are given four times a year. Applicants applying for fall admission should take the LSAT in June, October, or December. Those applying for spring admission should register for the December, March or June LSAT.

It is recommended that students applying for the LSAT leave themselves enough time for rescheduling in the event they are unable to take the exam on the scheduled date or desire to take the exam a second time.

Educational Testing Service advises that older scores should be accepted only in special circumstances and should be interpreted in light of the candidate's intervening experience. Thus, an applicant may be required to take the test again if his or her score is older than five years.

Law School Data Assembly Service: ALL applicants must submit the Law School Application Matching Form (LSA Matching Form) for the current processing year with the law school's copy of the application. No action will be taken on any application until receipt of this LSA Matching Form. The LSA Matching Forms are contained within the LSA/LSDAS registration materials in the Law School Admissions Bulletin. LSDAS reports will be produced by LSAS for candidates who have submitted the LSA Matching Form with their law school application to this or other law schools, providing the applicant is applying to more than one law school.

Considerable lead time (approximately 4 to 6 weeks) must be allowed for LSAS to prepare an LSAT/LSDAS report ONCE THEY HAVE RECEIVED YOUR LSAT/LSDAS REGISTRATION FORM AND TRANSCRIPTS.

Registration for the LSDAS is valid only for a current processing year; March 1, 1983 through June 20, 1984. The deadline for registering with LSDAS in the 1983-84 processing year is July 15, 1984 and all transcripts must be received by LSDAS no later than July 15, 1984. Those who make application for spring admission are reminded of the July 1 deadline and are warned that if they apply at the deadline, they will need to reregister for the new processing year.

Evaluations: Three letters of evaluation are requested of all applicants within 30 days of the receipt by the College of Law of the completed application for admission. These letters may be submitted with the application.

Advanced Standing: An applicant wishing to transfer with advanced standing on the basis of work completed at another law school may be considered for admission provided he or she meets the following criteria:

(1) the other law school is approved by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools;
(2) the applicant has earned a cumulative law school average of 2.65 or higher, or is in the upper one-half of his or her class; and,
(3) the applicant is in good standing and eligible to continue his or her study at the other law school.

Courses completed with a grade of C or higher in other ABA/AALS approved law schools will be acceptable (subject to Faculty approval) for credit up to but not exceeding a total of 28 semester hours. The Admissions Committee will consider applications meeting the above criteria early in the term preceding that in which matriculation is desired.

Acceptance of a transfer applicant is conditioned upon his or her maintaining the law school average or class standing prescribed above for all work undertaken subsequent to the application for transfer.

Applicants with Foreign Credentials: The Faculty of the University of Florida College of Law has adopted the following policy in respect to admission of applicants with foreign legal credentials to our Juris Doctor (J.D.) program:

(1) A "foreign lawyer" is defined as an individual who is a member of a foreign bar or who holds a law degree issued by an institution not in the United States.

(2) Foreign lawyer applicants shall ordinarily be required to take the LSAT, unless specifically exempted from doing so by the Admissions and Financial Aid Committee. In addition, applicants whose native language is not English shall be required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Foreign lawyer applicants shall submit all information required of other applicants for admission and, in addition, shall supply a detailed curriculum vitae indicating all professional activities engaged in since law school.

(3) All foreign lawyer applications shall be initially considered by the Admissions and Financial Aid Committee. The Committee shall forward all applications which it affirmatively recommends to the full faculty, which must approve or deny such applications. Admission of any such applicants shall only be recommended based on a prior record that suggests that the applicants is exceptional in terms of scholastic and career potential and that such applicant's presence will substantially enrich the educational experience of the J.D. program. Any applicant with foreign credentials other than a "foreign lawyer" shall be considered in accordance with the general J.D. admission policy, as revised in August, 1980. When the Admissions and Financial Aid Committee meets to consider foreign lawyer applications, it may request that faculty members who are not members of the Committee, but who possess expertise in evaluating foreign lawyer applications, participate in its deliberations or submit written evaluations of such applicants to assist it in its deliberations.

(4) The College of Law may consider for admissions applicants who have foreign law study experience, or have been admitted to the practice of law abroad. Such applicants are advised that, although admission will be based upon criteria in this policy, advanced standing or credits will only be given in line with (a) Standard 308 of the American Bar Association (ABA) Standards and Rules of Procedure, the pertinent section of which reads as follows:

(a) "Advanced standing and credit allowed for foreign study shall not exceed one-third of the total required by the Standards for the first professional degree unless the foreign study related chiefly to a system of law basically followed in the jurisdiction in which the admitting school is located; and in no event shall the maximum advanced standing and credit allowed two-thirds of the total required by the Standards for the first professional degree."

and (b) American Association of Law Schools (AALS) sections 2.8 and 2.9 which read as follows:

(b) "2.8 Advanced standing. A member school may grant a student academic credit ("academic standing") for work successfully completed at another member school or, much more cautiously, at a non-member law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA). Similarly, advanced standing toward a first degree in law may be allowed in respect to study outside the United States, if related to courses substantially equivalent to those given in member schools and if undertaken in an institution whose admissions standards are comparably high.

2.9 Advanced standing for foreign study. Advanced standing for foreign study shall not exceed one year unless the foreign study related chiefly to a system of law basically followed in the jurisdiction in which the member school is located; and in no event shall it exceed two years."

The Admissions and Financial Aid Committee shall appoint a faculty advisor for each foreign lawyer who accepts admission. The faculty advisor shall assist the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs in determining whether the applicant shall be granted credit for any previous course work taken at another institution which, in accordance with ABA Standard 308, may not exceed one-third of the total number of credits required for the J.D. degree. All foreign lawyer applicants, without exception, shall be required to complete the courses in Legal Writing, Professional Responsibility and the Senior Writing Requirement at this institution. Exemptions from other first year courses and other upper division courses may be granted, at the discretion of the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs, depending on the background and experience of the student. Any credit awarded pursuant to this paragraph shall be conditioned on the student attaining a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.50 on a 4.0 scale, in all courses taken at the College of Law.

(5) A foreign lawyer may not receive credit retroactively for courses audited or in which the student otherwise participated prior to admission to the College of Law or, if excluded for academic reasons, prior to readmission to the College of Law, unless specifically approved by the faculty.

(6) No action will be taken on a request for admission until receipt of a completed application. A completed application must be received on or before February 1st for the fall semester and July 1st for the spring semester. A completed application consists of:
- application forms, completed and signed;
- application fee of $15.00;
- official transcripts (translated into English);
- an LSAT/LSDAS report, indicated the applicant's LSAT score;
- TOEFL score if applicant is from a non-English speaking country;
- detailed curriculum vitae indicated all professional activities engaged in since law school;
- a personal statement from the applicant, informing the Committee of their reasons for wishing to attend this law school; and,
- at least three letters of evaluation from persons in a position to objectively form a judgement as to the potential of the applicant.

(7) Applicants are advised that criteria for admission to the Bar in the United States differ from one jurisdiction to another and that admission to and completion of a J.D. program with advanced standing may or may not qualify one to take the Bar examination in a particular state. Inquiries regarding precise eligibility status should be directed to the highest court in the state of the Bar Association of the state in which the foreign lawyer plans to live and practice.

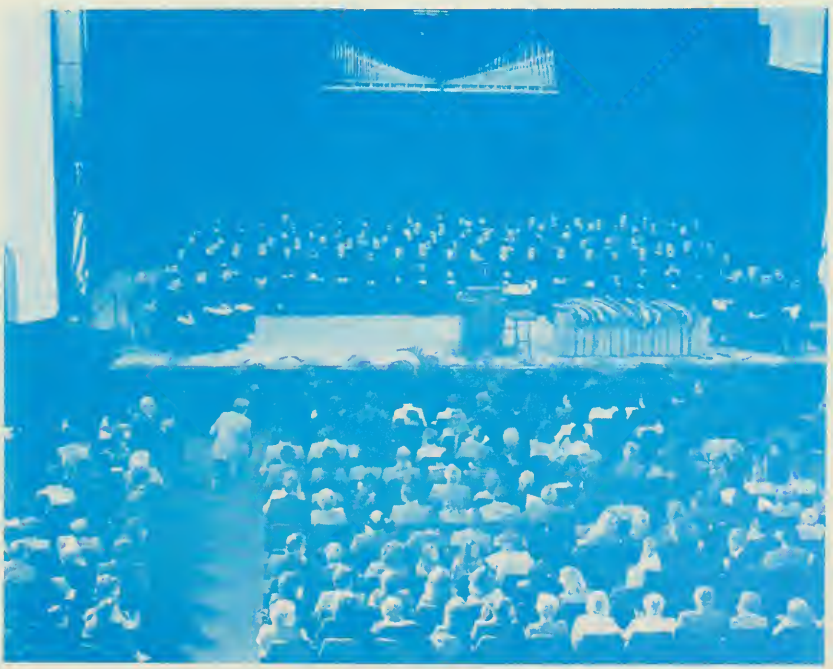
All of the above, with the exception of the LSAT/LSDAS Report, should be mailed directly to Law School Admissions, 164 Holland Law Center, University of Florida College of Law, Gainesville, Florida, 32611, U.S.A. For more information write directly to the above address.

Orientation Program For Beginning Students

In order to acquaint entering law student with the College of Law and law school teaching methods, an orientation program of one or more days is held for each entering class. Applicants accepted for admission will be advised of the exact date, prior to the commencement of regular classes, on which the orientation for that class will begin.

As part of the orientation program, entering students will be assigned a Small Group Advisor. These advisors are second and third year law students who will be available to help beginning students adjust to their first year of law school.



Requirements for Degree – J.D.

The faculty of the College of Law will recommend for the degree of Juris Doctor (J.D.) candidates who complied with the following requirements:

1. Completion with a passing grade of courses totaling at least 86 semester hours credit, of which at least 58 must have been completed in this College.
2. Satisfactory completion of:
   (a) Legal Research and Writing, LAW 5792, with a grade of S or better.
   (b) Appellate Advocacy, LAW 5793, with a grade of S or better.
   (c) The Advanced Writing Requirement.
   (d) Professional Responsibility, LAW 6750
3. Maintenance of a 2.0 honor point average on all work attempted in this College.
4. Fulfillment of course requirements as set forth hereafter under "Curriculum."
5. Completion of at least 90 weeks of full time study in residence in an accredited law school of which at least 60 must have been in residence in this College.
6 With permission of the Dean, upon good cause shown, work not to exceed 28 semester hours may be taken at another ABA/AALS approved law school.

In cases of superior scholarship and intellectual attainments the Juris Doctor degree may be recommended With Honors or With High Honors. Ordinarily to be eligible for consideration for the degree of Juris Doctor with honors the candidate must have maintained a grade point average of 3.0 on all work attempted, and to be eligible for the degree of Juris Doctor With High Honors the candidate must have maintained a grade point average of 3.5 on all work attempted.

Concurrent Degree Programs

Urban and Regional Planning

A four year program leading to a Juris Doctor and Master of Arts in Urban and Regional Planning is offered under the joint auspices of the College of Law and the Graduate School (College of Architecture, Department of Urban and Regional Planning). The program provides students interested in the legal problems of urban and regional planning with an opportunity to blend their law studies with relevant course work in the planning curriculum. The student receives both degrees at the end of a four year course of study whereas separate matriculation would require five years. Students must take the GRE and LSAT prior to admission and must separately gain admission to each program. The College of Law faculty advisor for this program is Professor Barry Currier.

Master of Business Administration

The College of Law and the Graduate School (College of Business Administration) offer a four year program culminating in both a Juris Doctor degree and a Master of Business Administration. The program is intended to provide broader career opportunities for students interested in business administration as well as in law. The student receives both degrees at the end of a four year course of study whereas separate matriculation would require five years. Students must satisfy admissions requirements of both colleges and may enter the concurrent degree program only in the fall semester. The student enrolled in the joint degree program many spend the first year in either the College of Law or the College of Business Administration. Students admitted to the law college but electing to spend the first academic year in the College of Business Administration under the joint degree program may enter the College of Law thereafter without once again qualifying for admission so long as they are in good academic standing in the College of Business Administration and their law study begins no later than the third semester after commencement of study at the College of Business Administration. Any student who participates in the joint degree must commence courses in the second discipline no later than the beginning of the third semester. The College of Law faculty advisor is Associate Dean Jeffrey Lewis.

Master of Arts in Political Science-Public Administration

The College of Law and the Graduate School (Department of Political Science-Public Administration) offer a four year program culminating in both a Juris Doctor and a Master of Arts in Political Science-Public Administration. This program allows the student to combine his or her interest in law with the area of public administration. The student receives both degrees at the end of four years of study. Students must satisfy admissions requirements of both colleges. The College of Law faculty advisor is Professor Winston Nagan.

Concurrent Degree Admissions/General Information

Interested students should apply to both the Holland Law Center and the Graduate School, noting on the application the joint nature of their admission request. Alternatively, students may apply to the Graduate School during their first year of law school. Candidates must meet the entrance requirements and follow the entrance procedures for each college. Students must be accepted by each college and satisfy the curriculum requirement of each degree. Further information is available from the College of Law, the College of Business Administration, the Department of Urban and Regional Planning in the College of Architecture, and the Department of Political Science-Public Administration in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

REGISTRATION, FEES AND ACADEMIC POLICIES

Registration

Registration dates for other than beginning students are set forth in the College of Law Calendar. All students must adhere to the registration procedure announced by the Office of the Registrar. Students are responsible for registering on those specified dates. Late registration fees will be charged for students registering anytime after the specified registration period.

Change of Registration-A student is not permitted to drop a course, exchange one course for another, elect or revoke the satisfactory/unsatisfactory option, or change sections in the same course without the approval of the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs. No student will receive credit for any course which he or she is not properly registered. Dates within which courses may be dropped or added are set forth in the College of Law Calendar.

Fees and Expenses

Note: While the College of Law Calendar may deviate from the University Calendar in some respects, law students must comply with all general University fee payment deadlines.

A Florida student will pay a fee of $38.00 per semester credit hour. and a non-Florida student will pay a fee of $110.00 per semester credit hour.

Alien students will pay the same fee as a non-Florida student.

In addition, a $24.00 health fee per semester will be paid by both Florida and non-Florida students.

All fees must be paid in accordance with University regulations. Late registration increases the registration fee by $25.00; this increased fee will not be waived for any reason. Prospective students should note that all fees are subject to increase without notice after the date of publication of this catalog.

Applications for admission of non-University of Florida students to the College of Law must be accompanied by an application fee of $15.00. This fee is not refundable.

Law School Admission Test and Law School Data Assembly Service: A fee of $20.00, in addition to a basic registration fee of $20.00 paid to the Law School Admission Services, covers the cost of the LSAT. The fee for LSDAS is $20.00.

Though expenses vary considerably with individual students, an unmarried student attending the College of Law should anticipate expenses in addition to tuition of at least $3,645.00 per year, estimated as follows: books and supplies, $450.00; personal and clothing, $545.00; room and board, $2,420.00; transportation, $230.00.

Consult the University Catalog for the time and place of the payment of fees and expenses, and for information concerning the classification of Florida and non-Florida students.

The above-listed fees are subject to change and you will be informed through the University of Florida when these occur.

Refund of Fees

1. Fees will be refunded in full for:
   a. Credit hours dropped during the drop/add period.
   b. Courses cancelled by the University.
2. With the exception of amounts required for collection under bond and trust obligations, fees may be refunded in instances of:
   a. Involuntary call to active duty.
   b. Death of a student.
   c. Illness of the student of such duration or severity, as confirmed by a physican, the completion of the semester is precluded, or
   d. Exceptional circumstances, upon approval of the University President.

Refunds may be obtained at Student Accounts, THE HUB, upon presentation of proper documentation.

Academic Policies

American Bar Association Standards

The Council of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association requests that attention be called to the Standards of the American Bar Association adopted in 1921 and by it recommended for enactment by all states. These standards as amended provide in effect that every candidate for admission to the bar, in addition to taking a public examination, shall give evidence of graduation from a law school which shall require at least three years of acceptable college work as a condition of admission, and three years of law study [or longer if not a full-time school], which shall have an adequate library and a sufficient number of teachers giving their entire time to the school to ensure actual personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body, and which shall not be operated as a commercial enterprise.

Student Employment

The College of Law of the University of Florida is a full-time law school as defined by the Association of American Law Schools. Association policy requires that its students be "full-time" students who devote substantially all of their working hours to the study of law. Pursuant to this policy, academic schedules and minimum load requirements are intentionally designed to require substantially the full working time of students of this College. Deviations from the required curriculum or the minimum load are never authorized solely to enable students to engage in part-time employment. Therefore, no student should plan to depend on part-time employment as a means of financing concurrent attendence at this College.

Maximum and Minimum Loads

No student may register in any semester for less than 12 nor more than 16 hours, and less than 6 nor more than 8 hours during the summer term. The minimum load is prescribed by the faculty to ensure equal full-time competitive effort from all students, and to enable graduates of this College to satisfy the study in residence requirements of the national accrediting associations, and of all federal and state jurisdictions. In exceptional cases, the maximum and minimum loads may be varied by approval of individual petitions. In keeping with our accreditation as a full-time law school, no such petition will be granted for the sole purpose of enabling a student to hold part-time employment. Any student who drops below the minimum load without administrative approval will be automatically suspended.

Graduate Level Course Option

With the advance approval of the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs, students may enroll in a maximum of two graduate courses outside of the law school for credit toward law school graduation. Under this option a student may receive no more than a total of 6 semester credit units. Two such courses may be taken in one semester. Although the grade is not computed in a student's grade point average, a B or higher must be earned to receive credit hours for the course. Students on probation are not eligible for the option.

Grading Scale – A student's work is graded according to the following scale: A - excellent; B - good; C - satisfactory; D - poor; and E - failure. The grades of B +, C +, and D + are awarded to those students whose work is evaluated at a level between the five primary grades. In addition, the grade of H (deferred grade) may be given when a student has been excused from completing a course within the grading period.

Grades of I (Incomplete) and X (absent from examination) are automatically changed to E's at the deadline set in the University Calender. However, under no circumstances may a grade of I or X be changed after one year. An H grade may not be changed after two years.

Grades of Satisfactory (S) or Unsatisfactory (U) are given in Legal Research & Writing (LAW 5792), Appellate Advocacy (LAW 5793), Civil Clinic (LAW 6940), Criminal Clinic (LAW 6942), Law Review (LAW 6950) and Moot Court (LAW 6951). Trial Advocacy (LAW 6361) and Criminal Practice (LAW 6941) may be graded on a satisfactory-unsatisfactory or graded basis, at the option of the instructor.

Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory Grading System – Students who have received credit for 56 hours of work in the College of Law are permitted to take one non-seminar elective course on a satisfactory-unsatisfactory grading system. The standard for satisfactory work shall be the grade of C. The S or U grade will become part of the student's record, but will not be counted in computing the student's grade point average. This option is available only to students in good standing who are not on any type of probation. The burden of assuring that the final class roll reflects a proper election of the option rests soley upon the individual student. The option of having the grade for a course determined on the S-U basis must be exercised by the student in any course before the expiration date of the Drop/Add period. Therefore, the option must be exercised before the end of the first week of classes and then becomes final. (See calendar.) Students should carefully consider the risk of exercising this option in their final term.

Determination of Honor Point Average – The honor point average is determined by computing the ratio of honor points of semester hours of work attempted in courses in which letter grades are assigned. The student receives honor points according to the following scale:

GRADE	HONOR POINTS	GRADE	HONOR POINTS
A	4	D +	1.5
B +	3.5	D	1
B	3	E	0
C +	2.5	I (Incomplete)	0
C	2	X (absent from exam)	0

Grades of H (Deferred grade), S (Satisfactory) and U (Unsatisfactory) are not computed in the student's grade point average.

Attendance

Class attendance is a primary obligation of each student, whose right to continued enrollment in the course and to take the examination is conditioned upon a record of attendance satisfactory of the professor. Students should become familiar with the following ABA requirements dealing with attendance.

ABA Rule 305 states in perinent part:

Attendance:

a) Subject to the qualifications and exceptions contained in this Chapter, the law school shall require as a condition for graduation, the completion of a course of study in residence of not less than 1200 class hours, extending over a period of not less than ninety weeks for full-time students . . .

(i) "in residence" means attendance at classes in the law school.
(ii) "class hours" means time spent in regularly scheduled class sessions in the law school including time alloted for final examinations, not exceeding ten percent of the total number of class session hours.

(iii) "full-time student" means a student who devotes substantially all working hours to the study of law.

c) Regular and punctual class attendance is necessary to satisfy residence and class hours requirement.

Drop Policy

Between the end of the official drop/add period and the date designated by the registrar's office as the last day for withdrawing without receiving failing grades in all courses, each student who has completed the first year of law school is allowed two automatic drops as follows; no more than one per semester, providing a student's course load does not fall below twelve hours in the semester in which a course is dropped.

Exceptions to the above policy must be approved by the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs. It should be recognized that as to any exception the burden is upon the student to demonstrate that a serious problem (such as illness), for which documentation is provided and over which the student has no control, has necessitated his or her request. Approval of other than the two free drops cannot be expected if the course is to be dropped because:

a. More hours are registered for than should have been.
b. The drop is simply to avoid a low grade which would lower the average.
c. It has been belatedly decided that the course is no longer needed.

Repeating Courses

A student who has passed a course cannot repeat it. A student who has failed a course cannot repeat it except that in exceptional circumstances, the Dean may permit repetition of a failed course This rule does not apply to LAW

5792 and 5793, Legal Writing and Appellate Advocacy, both of which must be completed with a grade of S or better, even if this requirement necessitates repeating these courses. Nor does this rule apply to LAW 6951, 6950, and 6930, where no failure is involved.

Examinations – Examinations for each course are generally given only at the end of each semester. Students are given exam numbers before each examination period. Faculty members are given keys for these exam numbers upon request. While most faculty members grade anonymously, they are not required to do so. Each faculty member, during the semester, will advise students what grading procedure will be followed in the course. Examination papers are retained by instructors for a period of not less than one year after administration of the examination. Usually, students are given an opportunity to review, within a reasonable time, any written work upon which a student's grade is based in whole or in part. Re-examinations are not given. See Academic Policies for delay in taking examinations.

Delay in Taking Examinations

Permission will not be given for a student to delay taking a scheduled examination except in extreme emergencies. The procedure to be followed will vary depending on whether illness or some other emergency is involved:

1. In case of illness, get in touch with the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs, Associate Dean, or Dean, trying to make contact with one of them in the order listed. If illness is the reason for the delay and permission is granted, a written statement from the treating physician to the effect that the student was too ill to take the examination at the scheduled time must be presented before the examination may be taken late.
2. For serious reasons other than illness, a student should file a petition in advance with the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs. Only after the student is notified that the petition for taking an examination late has been granted is the student free to miss a scheduled examination. Arrangements must be made with the administration office for taking the examination late.

An examination will, under no circumstances, be delayed because of several being scheduled consecutively unless there are at least three examinations scheduled for consecutive examination periods. When the examination schedule requires a student to take three examinations in three consecutive examination times, the student may elect to defer only the second examination in that sequence, and then that examination must be taken on the first subsequent examination day on which the student has no other examination scheduled. (Under no circumstances will permission be given to take an examination before the scheduled time.)

Departure and Reentry

Subject to the catalog rules governing probation and exclusion and in compliance with ABA and AALS standards where applicable, a student who has been evaluated on at least one full semester of work may withdraw or depart, retaining the right to reenter this College within five years from the ending date of the last term in which such student earned law school credit. Upon the expiration of the period of five years, or unless special circumstances are shown, a student who desires to return and otherwise entitled to continue to this College must apply for admission as a beginning student, or with advanced standing as appropriate. The determination of special circumstances shall be made by the Dean with reference to the particular circumstances of each student. A student who registers as a beginning student but withdraws prior to completion of a full semester's work, must submit a new application for admission to a subsequent class, and will be considered with regard to standards prevailing at the time of subsequent application.

Jury Duty

Each law student's obligation to function as a member of this law college community includes the duty to appear when notified of selection for service as a jurior on Practice Court or Clinic trials. Periodic notices of selection are posted on the official bulletin board of this College.

Unexcused failure to discharge this duty will result in permanent loss of registration priority for all courses upon which enrollment limitations are placed, including seminars, practice court, and clinical programs. A student thus penalized who wishes to regain registration priority may request permission from the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs to perform jury service at such time as may be designated by the Assistant Dean.

Students who for compelling reasons are unable to appear for jury duty when notified may obtain permission from the Assistant Dean to substitute another person without penality. Post facto requests will be treated on the same basis as unexcused absences.

Academic Dishonesty Procedures

The Academic Dishonesty Procedures of the University of Florida, which are applicable to the College of Law, are as follows:

1. When a student is accused of academic dishonesty, the faculty member involved will meet with the student. Prior to this meeting, the professor should contact the Director of Student Judicial Affairs in Tigert Hall and determine whether the student has committed a prior offense. If it is not a first offense, the situation will most likely call for all-University disciplinary action (See #2). If, however, this is a first offense, and the faculty member decides that no other factors in connection with the offense would require all-University disciplinary action (conduct probation, suspension, or expulsion), he or she may hold a hearing with the student.

The student should be:

a. given a notice of charges; and
b. given an opportunity in a hearing with the faculty member to present his or her case.

This hearing will include an opportunity for the student to present any witnesses he or she may have, the right to have an advisor present, the right to confront any student who allegedly saw him or her cheating, and to understand his or her rights prior to the beginning of the hearing. The maximum penalty that the faculty member may assign is a grade of "E" in the course. If this issue is not resolved as a result of this hearing, i.e., there has not been agreement on the matter between faculty member and student, it is recommended that the faculty member refer the case to the Director of Student Judicial Affairs who will then transmit it to the University of Florida Student Honor Court for adjudication.

If the issue is resolved as a result of the hearing held between the student and the faculty member, the Director of Student Judicial Affairs should be contacted and notified of the offense, its circumstances, and its resolution. In this manner the University will be able to keep a central registry of all students who have committed academic violations.

2. If the faculty member feels that a case of academic dishonesty may warrant possible all-University disciplinary action, the faculty member should refer the case to the Director of Student Judicial Affairs, who will then transmit it to the Student Honor Court. The case will then be adjudicated by the Student Honor Court. Penalties the Student Honor Court can recommend are:

   a. formal reprimand;
   b. probation;
   c. suspension; and
   d. expulsion.

   An "E" in a course involved may also be recommended to the faculty member who, of course, retains the responsibility and authority to assign all grades. If the student desires to appeal the decision recommended by the Student Honor Court he/she may do so through the Director of Student Judicial Affairs to the Vice President for Student Affairs within two days of the hearing.

Official Notices

The privilege insofar as permitted by law and in accordance with legal requirements is reserved to modify, amend, or revoke any rules, regulations, requirements for degree, or to make changes in the curriculum set forth in this catalog.

(All students are required to acquaint themselves with matters posted on the Official Bulletin Board.)

Exclusion for Academic Reasons

Students in the college are graduate students in a program of professional education. In place of the University of Florida Undergraduate Student Regulations, the following probation and exclusion rules apply to all law students.

A student who withdraws from the college during two successive terms in which the student has begun attendance shall be excluded from further enrollment in the college unless, for good cause shown, the dean approves further enrollment.

For all terms other than the first term of the first year, a student whose cumulative grade point average is less than 2.0 is not eligible to continue. A student whose grade point average is less than 2.0 at the end of the first term of the first year of law study will be on scholastic probation and will not be eligible to continue if the grade point average is less than 2.0 at the end of the probationary term.

For purposes of these probation and exclusion rules, the grades I and X are treated as the grade of E until they are changed to permanent grades, and at that time the grade point average will be recomputed and the student's standing will be determined on the basis of the permanent grades. The grades S and U are not used in computing grade point averages. Only grades earned at this College will be considered in computing a student's grade point average under these rules.

A student ineligible to continue under these rules will not be readmitted except by action of the Academic Standards Committee of the College, and the Academic Standards Committee will not entertain a petition from a student who has received a grade of H in one-forth or more of the credit hours for which the student was enrolled at the time of exclusion.

Reinstatement

Except as otherwise provided, a student who is ineligible to continue in the College may petition the Academic Standards Committee for reinstatement. Students petitioning for reinstatement must submit their written petitions to the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs at least one week prior to the start of classes in the term for which the student seeks reinstatement. The Committee's decision is final, and may incorporate appropriate terms and conditions.

LEGAL INFORMATION CENTER

The College of Law opened in 1909 with a very meager collection of books. In fact, ten years later, at the end of the academic year, 1918, the collection numbered only 4,548 volumes.

Growth was not dramatic during the next two decades; nevertheless, the collection reached the 10,000 figure in 1933, and by the end of the academic year, 1940, there were almost 14,000 volumes in the Law Library, nearly a threefold increase since its earliest years.

In the postwar period the enrichment of the curriculum and opportunity for broader and deeper training and research had its impact on the library. In the decade between 1940 and 1950, the collection nearly doubled in number of volumes. The following decade showed corresponding growth, the collection more than doubling, so that by the end of the 1960-61 academic year the collection reached 60,000 volumes.

In December, 1969, the 100,000th volume was added. With increasing appropriations since 1970, the library collection again doubled in size by 1975. The current count exceeds 350,000 volumes which ranks Florida 19th in law school library holdings in the country.

In the last decade just under $3,000,000 was appropriated for legal materials. For two years the budget was the largest among law school libraries in the country and a third year it was second only to Harvard. These funds enabled the library to acquire in depth, rich resources for an expanding student body and faculty.

The Legal Information Center, formerly known as the Law Library, provides comprehensive coverage of materials in all areas of American law, including complete holdings of state and federal laws and court reports, 800 law review and legal periodicals indexed in the two standard legal periodical indices, an extensive treatise collection, broad coverage in looseleaf services, comprehensive tax materials for graduate research and a vast collection of other supporting secondary authority. While the federal documents collection in the Legal Information Center expanding, the extensive regional federal documents depository of the University Libraries as well as its 2½ million volumes are totally accessible to law students and faculty.

Other segments of the library's book collection include substantial holdings of English and other common law jurisdictions, as well as those of various other foreign countries. A large Latin American law collection is shared with the University Libraries, which specializes in Caribbean and Latin American publications. Our Brazilian holdings rank among the best nationally.

The law collection is housed in three spacious readings rooms and four stack levels, with individual study carrels on each floor. Elaborate facilities and equipment are available for effective employment of the latest audio-visual techniques. In addition to 16mm. films and audio-cassettes, there are over 700 pre-recorded book-sized video-cassettes, most of which are in color and may run up to sixty minutes. These cassettes consists of programs prepared for and by national institutes, and seminars for attorneys, with leading attorneys and professors as speakers. One series on trial advocacy was developed by the American Bar Association. The facilities rank among the best in audio-visual materials available in any law school. Half-inch black and white color videotape is used extensively in recording the mock trials in the law center. The opening of the professional audio-visual and courtroom facilities in the Burton-Geer addition will provide more extensive usage of the media resources.

Eighteen computer terminals are currently in operation; two for cataloging, two for legal research, one for automated programmed instruction, and six to initiate a campus-wide automated library system. Individualized library services are provided to students and faculty members by a staff or professional librarians who assist in learning how to use the automated systems for study and research. The center has recently acquired seven IBM personal computers for word processing, computer-assisted instruction, access to national law and law-related data bases, and faculty, staff, and student research projects. Three terminals are available for public use. These terminals use the LEXIS, WESTLAW, and PLATO systems. The Legal Information Center was the first law school subscriber to WESTLAW and an early subscriber to PLATO and LEXIS. Through access to these systems, users may search extensive databases of federal and state laws, cases, and administrative publications in addition to other miscellaneous databases, including English law and cases, and the European Common Market. Many students learn the basics for some classes through use of the programmed courses in PLATO, the computer assisted instruction system. The Center has recently acquired an extensive collection of legal computer-assisted programs on floppy discs that can be used by faculty and students on the IBM personal computers.

STUDENT PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

Financial Aid – Entering J.D. Students

Policy

It is the policy of the University of Florida Law Center Association and the Holland Law Center to meet the financial needs of qualified law students, insofar as funds are available, with what is in essence a revolving fund. Accordingly, the bulk of available funds is directed toward loans rather than scholarships.

Loans

Holland Law Center Association Merit Loan – Each year the Holland Law Center Association awards approximately 10 Merit Loans to entering freshmen who are Florida residents. Merit Loans provide a lump sum of $900 for the first academic year (2 semesters) of study. Additional loans of $900 each for the second and third academic years will be reserved for the recipient, if the recipient achieves satisfactory grades.

University of Florida Law Center Association Merit Loans do not require co-endorsers. No interest is charged until six months after the date of graduation or termination of law school attendance, whichever comes first. The interest rate is 4% per annum. No payment of interest or principal is required until five years after graduation or termination of law school attendance. The total time for repayment is five years from the date on which the payment of interest and principal first becomes due.

Karl B. Block, Jr. Memorial Loan Fund – This fund, established by the friends of Karl B. Block, Jr., provides long-term loans in the amount of $900 per academic year to beginning freshmen who are bona fide residents of Dade County. These loans are only available for fall entering classes.

Robinson Reese Saunders Memorial Loan – This fund was established by the law firm of Saunders, Curtis, Ginestra & Gore. The amount of the loan will be $900 per academic year. The award will be made to beginning freshmen in recognition of the applicant's financial need and promise for success in the College of Law and in the legal profession. This loan may not be available for each beginning class depending on the availability of funds.

Scholarships and Loans

Scholarships for Advanced Law Students

The following scholarship funds are available for advanced law students. Application forms for these scholarships can be obtained in the Administration Office of the College of Law.

Crandall Memorial Scholarships. – The scholarships were established through the will of the late Kathleen B. Crandall in honor of her husband, the late Dr. Clifford W. Crandall, formerly a member of the faculty of the College of Law of the University of Florida. Presently there is one scholarship with an Chester H. Ferguson Scholarships – Before his death in 1983, the late alumnus Chester H. Ferguson established a scholarship fund for outstanding entering freshmen. These scholarships, which have a stipend of $1,000 for the academic year, are awarded on the basis of merit and need.

Basis of Award

Merit Loans and Non-resident Tuition Scholarships are awarded only to entering law students on the basis of scholastic record, need, character, aptitude, and apparent promise for success in the legal profession. The undergraduate grade point average and Law School Admission Test scores are the basis for first year awards. To be eligible to apply for a Merit Loan or Non-resident Tuition Scholarship, an applicant must have an overall undergraduate grade point average of at least 3.20 on a 4.0 system, and obtain an LSAT score of 36 (625 on old scale) or higher. These are minimum criteria. Successful applicants will have superior credentials. Those applicants who do not meet the quantitative requirements stated above should write directly to the University's Financial Aid Office (111 Anderson Hall) for details concerning the federal and state loans available.

Financial Assistance

Federal and State sponsored loans and employment programs are handled on a University-wide basis. Information and application forms concerning National Direct Loans, Federally Insured Loans, College Work Study Employment, and OPS employment may be obtained from the Student Financial Affairs Office, 111 Anderson Hall, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida 32611. Non-Florida residents may apply to the designated agency in their respective states for a guaranteed bank loan under the Higher Education Act.

How to Apply

If your credentials and financial need meet the requirements for a University of Florida Law Center Association Merit Loan or a Non-resident Tuition Scholarship, it is suggested that you request financial assistance. The Holland Law Center participates in the Graduate and Professional School Financial Aid Service (GAPSFAS), and uses the GAPSFAS report to select recipients for financial aid. To apply for financial assistance, write to GAPSFAS for an application form and, in completing the form, indicate the Holland Law Center as recipient. The address is:

Graduate and Professional School Financial Aid Service
Box 2614, Educational Testing Service
Princeton, New Jersey 08540

The GAPSFAS report must be received on or before October 1 for spring entrants and March 1 for fall entrants. Completion of the Parent's Questionnaire is required. Only candidates who have been accepted for admission can be considered for financial aid. Transfer students are not eligible until they have been evaluated in this law school for at least one semester. THE GAPSFAS FORM SHOULD BE USED BY ENTERING LAW STUDENTS ONLY. It is not intended for use by currently enrolled law students or transfer students.

Minority Applicants

Some financial aid is available to minority students who do not meet the above academic criteria. Interested minority applicants should communicate directly with the Assistant Dean for Minority Affairs, Holland Law Center, University of Florida for detailed information.

annual stipend of $600. The scholarship is awarded to a student who has completed at least two and not more than three semesters. Mrs. Crandall's will provides that the scholarships are to be awarded to good students in need of financial assistance. Recipients are selected by the Board of Trustees of the University of Florida Law Center Association on the basis of scholastic performance and need. The scholarship is awarded in the fall term.

Atwood Dunwody Scholarship. – This scholarship was established by a friend to honor Atwood Dunwody, a graduate of this College. One scholarship of $750 is awarded annually to a second year law student on the basis of academic standing and need for financial assistance. This scholarship is awarded in the fall term.

Junia Engelhard-Max Bisk Scholarship. – The scholarship was established by Nathan M. Bisk, Class of 1973, in memory of his wife's mother, Junia Small Engelhard, and his father, Max David Bisk. A $200 cash scholarship is awarded annually on the basis of financial need to students who have completed their first year in law school. This scholarship is awarded in the fall term.

Justice Richard W. Ervin Scholarship Fund. – This fund was established by the law firm of Ervin, Varn, Jacobs, and Odom. One scholarship is awarded annually in the spring to a graduating senior with high academic standing.

Joseph J. Gersten Key. – This award was established by Joseph J. Gersten while serving as chairman of the Florida Board of Bar Examiners to honor the outstanding law school senior judged on the basis of academic achievement and leadership in activities relating to the law school's educational program, extracurricular interests, character and promise of a distinguished career. This scholarship is awarded annually to a spring graduate.

Julius F. Parker Scholarship. – This fund was established by the Parker family in honor of Julius F. Parker, past president of the Florida State Bar Association. One scholarship of $500 is awarded annually to a senior with high academic standing. Only summer and fall graduates are eligible.

Phi Alpha Delta Scholarship. – Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity makes ten five hundred dollar ($500) scholarships available nationally each year. Students who have completed two years of law school and who are members of the fraternity may be eligible for such a scholarship. Applications and detailed information can be received from the Faculty Advisor or the Chapter Justice.

Phi Delta Phi Scholarship. – Phi Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity annually grants two $100 awards. The awards are made to two initiated members of Cockrell Inn who have best exhibited a high degree of scholastic achievement, as well as service to the Inn and the College of Law.

Scholarships

Non-resident Tuition – Qualified non-residents of the State of Florida may be granted Non-resident Tuition Scholarships. The Non-resident Tuition Scholarship pays the difference between non-resident and resident tuition fees. The Non-resident Tuition Scholarship is continued for two semesters, provided the student maintains a 2.80 grade point average.

Ralph R. Bailey Scholarship Fund – The estate of Ralph R. Bailey has established a fund, the income of which provides scholarship grants to a number of incoming and advanced students. Recipients must have been bona fide residents of Broward County for one year prior to the date of application to law school. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic standing, need for financial assistance, sound character, integrity, good achievement in extra curricular service activity while in undergraduate or graduate school.

Walter L. "Bud" Robison, III, Memorial Scholarship. – This scholarship in memory of alumnus and past John Marshall Bar Association President Walter L. "Bud" Robison, III, was established by his family, members of the class of 1966, and other friends. An award of $750 is made annually on the basis of need to an outstanding student in his or her second or third year of law school. This scholarship is awarded in the fall.

Judge James B. Whitfield Constitutional Law Scholarship. – Approximately $1,000 with an appropriate certificate will be awarded annually to a senior law student who has demonstrated high proficiency and interest in the field of Constitutional Law. Consideration is to be given not only to grades but also to those qualities that will lead to an outstanding career in the field of Constitutional Law. Those eligible to apply are recipients of the highest grade in Constitutional Law I or II, Florida Constitutional Law, Constitutional Law Seminar or Political and Civil Rights; authors of articles or papers dealing with Constitutional Law prepared for the University of Florida Law Review for seminars or for an Independent Study Course; and those nominated by members of the Holland Law Center Faculty who teach in the area of Constitutional Law. This scholarship is awarded each summer.

Loans funds for Advanced Law Students

From time to time, on an emergency basis, long-term loans in the amount of $300 per academic year may be granted if the student:

- demonstrates financial need;
- has completed at least one semester in the College of Law and has earned a law school average of 2.0 or higher;
- is registered for at least 12 semester hours and possesses a validated fee card before processing the loan; and
- has loans and grants for the academic year (2 semesters) not exceeding $2,500. (Tuition waivers for special students are not included in this $2,500.)

Application forms for the following loan funds are in the law school's Administration Office and are available at the beginning and end of each semester. Applications are not available during the summer term.

Brevard County Bar Association Scholarship Fund. – Applicants are limited to Brevard County residents attending a Florida law school, and must be at least second semester students in good academic standing. Funds are limited to $1,000 per student per year, payable immediately prior to the beginning of the term and divided into equal payments based upon the school's system. The financial need of the student is a paramount importance in making the selection, and the Bar reserves the right to inquire into the financial status of the parents of a student under 25 years of age. In order to provide a continuing fund, the grant is paid back over five years commencing one year after graduation.

Clearwater Bar Association Memorial Loan Fund. – A loan fund established as a memorial to deceased members of the Clearwater Bar Association. Loans from this fund are available to students residing in the Clearwater-Largo area.

James W. Day Memorial Loan Fund. – Admirers of Mr. Day have provided a fund for loans to needy students with good academic records. Preference is given to third year law students.

The Florida Bar Foundation, Glenn Terrell Scholarship Fund. – This scholarship loan is limited to only those students attending Florida law schools who have completed two full semesters of study. A total not to exceed $3,000 may be loaned to each applicant. Application forms and additional information may be obtained from Jane Dallet, The Florida Bar, Tallahassee, Florida 32304.

Eldridge Hart Loan Fund. – This loan fund was established through the will of the late Mrs. Marion Houghtelin Hart. The loan fund is made available to worthy law students to assist them in completing their legal training.

Mark Hulsey, Jr. Student Loan Fund.. – Established by alumnus Mark Hulsey, Jr. for law students needing financial assistance in the form of loans.

Leroy Franklin Lewis Memorial Loan Fund.. – This fund was established through the will of the late Mrs. Catherine L. Thomas of Pensacola, Florida, in memory of her father, the late Leroy Franklin Lewis, formerly a practicing attorney in New York City. Loans are to be made available to students to assist them in completing their legal, medical and theological training. First priority for loans will be given to law students, with preference to second and third year students.

L. David Llewelyn Loan Fund. – Friends and family of L. David Llewelyn have established this loan fund in memory of David Llewelyn, J.D., 1975.

Giddings E. Mabry Loan Fund. – This loan fund was established by Mrs. William J. Dann, Jr., in honor of her father.

Frank E. Maloney Memorial Loan Fund. – Students, alumni and other friends of the late Dean Frank E. Maloney established as a memorial a fund to assist law students.

Miami Beach Bar Association Scholarship Fund. – Applicants must be, or have been, residents of Dade County attending a Florida Law School and must be at least second semester students in good academic standing. The student's grades must meet the approval of the Bar's Scholarship Loan Committee. Funds are limited to $500 and are repayable without interest one year after graduation. The financial need of the student is of paramount importance and the Bar will require an explanation of the circumstances of the students' financial need.

Phi Alpha Delta Loans. – Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, International offers a program of Endowment Fund Loans to law student members of the Fraternity who are in need of such loans to complete their law school education. The maximum amount of such loans is $1,500.00 and repayment does not begin until after graduation. In addition, the Fraternity offers a program of Endowment Fund Loans to members of minority groups who are attending law school.

Phi Delta Phi Loan Fund. – Phi Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity provides loans to local chapter members in amounts up to $500. Recipients may repay these loans without interest within two years subsequent to graduation from law school.

Dean Slagle Memorial Loan Fund. – An anonymous donor has provided a fund for loans to needy law students with good academic records. Preference is given to third year law students.

C. J. TeSelle Memorial Fund. – An anonymous donor has provided a fund for loans to needy law students with good academic records. Preference is given to third year law students.

The University Catalog or the University Student Financial Aid Bulletin should be consulted for information as to other scholarship and loan funds that may be available to law students.

Short-Term Loan Funds Administered by the College of Law

The ten funds listed below are administered by the College of Law internally and can be made available within a day or two following application for the loan. Terms vary slightly from fund to fund, but generally they are 90-day loans, $250 maximum, and have no interest charges if paid back on time.

To be eligible, students must have completed at least two semesters at the College of Law. Only one loan may be taken out each semester and a late charge of ten percent of the loan amount will be assessed if the loan is not paid back on time.

Ralph Blowers Memorial Loan Fund. – Friends of the late Ralph Blowers have established this fund to provide short-term loans up to $200 through the Loan Committee of the John Marshall Bar Association, the student organization of the College of Law, in conjunction with the Sun Bank of Gainesville. Loans are made on the basis of individual student need.

Martha B. Culpepper Memorial Loan Fund. – This fund was established in memory of Martha B. Culpepper, the first administrative assistant of the University of Florida Law Review, to provide short-term loans to students who have completed two semesters of Law School.

Harriet-Horner Memorial Loan Fund. – This fund, established in memory of George Harriett and Jack Horner, provides short-term loans to students in the second and third years of law study.

Justice Story Book Exchange Loan Fund. – This short-term loan fund was established by the student book exchange to provide emergency loans for students who have completed two semesters of law school.

Young Lawyers Section – John Marshall Bar Association Emergency Loan Fund. – The Young Lawyers Section of The Florida Bar has made available to the John Marshall Bar Association funds for emergency loans up to $200 to students in their second semester or above.

Minority Law Student Emergency Loan Fund. – Loans in the amount of $200 per academic year are awarded through the Assistant Dean for Minority Affairs. Established to provide short-term relief for unexpected happenings.

Laura T. Plum Loan Fund. – This short-term loan fund was established through the will of the late Laura T. Plum to assist worthy and needy law students.

Randolph Ross Thomas, Jr. Memorial Loan Fund. – Short-term loans from this fund are made available to students in the graduate tax program on the basis of need in memory of Randolph Ross Thomas, Jr.

Housing

On-campus. Single students may find accommodations in on-campus, light housekeeping apartments, and married students in on-campus married housing. These are owned and operated by the University of Florida. In addition, married students may apply for low-income apartments if their family income is not greater than $10,850 to $15,300 (depending upon family size, according to a scale fixed by the F.H.A.).

Off-campus. There are numerous off-campus modern apartments near the University.

Center for Governmental Responsibility

The Center for Governmental Responsibility is an organization committed to the goal of seeking out and implementing ways of making government more accountable to its citizens. The Center provides students with a unique opportunity to conduct research on issues relating to executive, legislative, and judicial functions at the local, state and national level. The research agenda includes energy law, environmental and water law and policy, criminal and juvenile justice, sunshine legislation and privacy, legal concerns of the elderly, constitutional revision, bar reform and ethics, complaint handling and ombudsman services.

Students at the Center are involved in activities such as testimony, public hearings, publication, administrative hearings, and legislative analysis and drafting.

Publications include educational pamphlets, academic legal articles, testimony, court briefs, and technical project reports. Funding sources for Center projects include federal and state agencies, private corporations, foundations, and the Florida Legislature.

Applications are accepted from students in the third semester and beyond; personal interviews are conducted upon project position openings. Students are selected for participation on the basis of undergraduate, graduate and law school record and experience. Student participants are provided financial compensation.

Clinical Program

The translation of legal theory into practice, representing actual clients in actual cases and studying the "non-traditional" skills of lawyering, is available to students enrolled in the clinical programs at the College of Law. The total spectrum of legal practice, from interviewing, counseling, case development, research, discovery and negotiation, through the full range of trial skills can be experienced in the context and immediacy of representing indigent clients. Legal concepts such as divorce, eviction, adoption, administrative regulations, consumer's rights, arrest, bail, probation and habeas corpus take on reality when confronted in a clinical program. Procedural and evidentiary learning is enhanced by experiencing and applying these rules in concrete cases.

Students may enroll in one of two programs: The Civil Clinic or the Criminal Clinic:

(a) The Civil Clinic operates out of the College of Law and represents clients whose financial posture and civil legal problems meet guidelines set by the Florida Supreme Court. Students are given primary responsibility for handling each case. Close supervision by faculty supervisors who are experienced members of The Florida Bar ensures professional responsibility and a climate encouraging feedback and reflection.

The Civil Clinic provides a one-semester experience in all practical areas of civil legal practice and an exposure to a variety of substantive areas of law. In addition there is a classroom component in which the student performs in controlled simulated situations which are videotaped and critiqued by peers and supervisors. In the course of the semester the student will confront problems of interviewing, counseling, investigation, discovery, negotiation and handle all areas of trial practice, including preparation of trial tactics, presentation of evidence, interrogation of witnesses and relationship with the trier of fact. Participation in Clinic provides a unique opportunity to analyze and reflect on these skills, to enhance the development of practical competency, and to facilitate career choice and adjustment to practice after graduation. Enrollment in the Civil Clinic requires a commitment to active client representation through the semester break period up until the Friday before the beginning of the next semester. This is required for all clinic students whether graduating or not.

The Civil Clinic awards 9 credits. Enrollment is limited to 10 students. Preregistration is done in the middle of the semester registration. An application form is available at the Clinic Office, Room 323.

Selections for the Clinic will be made on the basis of these applications. Although there are no formal course prerequisites, Evidence and Professional Responsibility are strongly encouraged prior to beginning the clinic program.

(b) The Criminal Law Clinic commences with a course in Criminal Practice for 3 units of credit, following which students are certified as interns and may progress in the following term to the Criminal Clinic course for 6 units of credit. Enrollment in the Criminal Practice course is limited to 24 students. Twelve of these positions are reserved for students who wish to progress to the Clinic course. The remaining 12 positions are available to students who wish to take just the Criminal Practice course. Application is made in the middle of the semester before enrollment, normally the two weeks before regular preregistration. Application forms are available during this time at the Clinic Office, Room 323.

The Criminal Practice course is organized largely upon a Practice Court motif, with provision made for more conventional teaching methods such as lecture and class discussion. During the course the class as a group will develop a single simulated criminal case through the entire formal criminal process from arrest through trial. Other more abbreviated simulations will also be conducted. The course is designed to provide the student with an overview of the entire criminal pretrial and trial processes and to acquaint student with the basic lawyering skills required to function in this context.

In the following term students who elect to do so will be assigned as interns to either the Office of Public Defender or State Attorney for the Eighth Judicial Circuit in Gainesville. While assigned to these offices, interns will perform all attorney functions of the office under the supervision of selected staff members of the offices. During the course of the semester, interns will be assigned to misdemeanor, felony, and juvenile cases and may expect to be involved in interviewing clients and witnessess, investigating cases, doing all pretrial pleading and discovery, negotiating and conducting actual jury and nonjury trials. In all of these activities, interns will be closely supervised by staff members of the offices who, in turn, will be supervised by members of the law faculty.

For further information, see course descriptions under LW 6940, 6941, and 6942. Interested parties may contact Professor Don Peters (for the Civil Clinic) and Professor James R. Pierce (for the Criminal Clinic) at the Office of the Clinics at the College of Law.

Distinguished Visiting Professor Program

The University of Florida Law Center Association periodically assists the College of Law in attracting eminent law teachers, jurists, and public figures to participate in and teach seminar courses. Past visitors have included the late Tom C. Clark, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court; former Secretary of Labor, Willard Wirtz; former Solicitor General of the United States and former Dean of Harvard Law School, Erwin Griswold, and Professors James W. Moore, Delmar Karlen, James Willard Hurst, and William M. Reisman.

Minority Affairs

The College of Law is aware that minority groups are not represented within the professions in any significant number. Accordingly, concerted efforts are being made to make legal education available to minority students.

For further information on minority affairs, see Admissions Policy or contact the Assistant Dean for Minority Affairs.

Placement

A full-time placement staff is available to provide assistance to prospective employers and students of the Holland Law Center. Representatives from law firms, corporations, government agencies, and judicial offices throughout the nation visit the Law Center during the year to interview prospective graduates. Private interview facilities are available at the Holland Law Center to those employers who interview on a nondiscriminatory basis.

In addition to coordinating activities between students and employers, the staff of the placement office is available at all times to provide individual counseling to students. Assisting in resume preparation, advising on interviewing techniques, and providing information concerning the variety of positions and opportunties available are just a few of the activities of the placement office. A placement bulletin is also available for graduates of the Holland Law Center.

Typically approximately 70% of those law graduates seeking employment have jobs at graduation. The average starting salary for the May 1983 graduating class was approximately $25,000.

In addition to the placement of graduates for permanent employment, the placement office assists second year students in obtaining clerking positions. These positions frequently lead to permanent employment upon the student's graduation.

International Law Programs

International Law Society

The International Law Society is a student association affiliated with the American Association of Student International Law Societies in Washington, D.C. Membership is open to all interested law students. The International Law Society conducts a speakers program, with a series of luncheons throughout the year with a guest speaker experienced in international law and foreign relations. The International Law Society also administers the participation in the Phillip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court competition.

International Law Moot Court Competition

The law school participates annually in the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court competition. The program is administered by the International Law Society, but is open to all law students who participate by means of intramural competitions conducted each year. At the beginning of each Spring semester a five member team is chosen to represent the law school in the annual Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court competition. The initial, regional round is held each year at a law school in the South. The successful team goes on to the national finals held each year in April in Washington, and the winner of that competition argues against teams from law schools from around the world. The subject each year deals with a hypothetical but timely issue of international law, with memorials (briefs) prepared for argument before the International Court of Justice.

International Summer Law Programs

Since 1970 the College of Law has sponsored summer law programs abroad, which allow a student to study international and comparative law topics at associated legal institutions in other countries. In the past the two programs have been offered in alternate years. Inquiries concerning plans for the summer of 1984 should be referred to the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs.

There are international summer law programs offered by universities other than the University of Florida. Before enrolling in such other programs, a student must check with the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs to ascertain whether or not residence credit and academic credit may be transferred to the University of Florida. A list of A.B.A. approved summer law programs located both in the United States and abroad is available in the Administration Office for student use.

Cambridge-Warsaw International Trade Law Program

The College of Law, in cooperation with Trinity College of Cambridge University and the Institute of Legal Sciences of the Polish Academy of Sciences, conducts a summer program in England and Poland. The program is conducted entirely in English, taught by faculty members from this College of Law, Cambridge University, and the Polish Academy of Sciences. United States law students are offered an opportunity to study a variety of subject dealing with International and Comparative Law, particularly Civil Law, Socialist Law, the Law of International Trade and the law of the European Economic Community and the Council on Mutual Economic Assistance. All courses are conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association.

Mexican Summer Law Program

The College of Law, in cooperation with the Escuela Libre de Derecho, conducts a summer law program in Mexico City. The program begins in late June and ends in mid-August.

Conducted entirely in English, the program is taught by faculty members from law schools in both the United States and Mexico. United States law students are offered an opportunity to study a variety of subject ranging from the broad areas of International and Comparative Law to the more specific area of Latin American and particularly Mexican Law. All courses are conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association.

Law Center Association

The University of Florida Law Center Association was formed in 1960 as a support group for the College of Law. It is a 501 (c) (3) type organization under the Internal Revenue Code, serving as a repository for nearly all of the private support given to the College. Unrestricted monies provided through the Association help fund a number of programs and purposes at the Law Center including student scholarships and loans, placement, library support serrvices, the Graduate Tax Program, visiting professors and research.

The Law Center Trustees were organized in 1960 and act as an informal borad of advisors to the Dean and College. They are involved in managing the assests of Law Center Association, Inc., legislative liaison work and securing private funds. The Trustees have been instrumental in the successful campaign to raise funds for the Commons Building. The 1983-84 Trustees Chairman is Doyle Rogers '52, a practicing attorney in Palm Beach.

A second support group also plays a key role in assisting the College of Law. The College of Law Alumni Council was established in 1972 and reorganized in 1983. Its membership includes representatives from each class of the College who assist with the Annual Enrichment Fund and class reunions. The Alumni Council also is involved in continuing legal education, career development, and special events at the College of Law. Michael J. McNerney '73, a Ft. Lauderdale Attorney, is the 1983-84 Alumni Council President.

ORGANIZATIONS, ACTIVITIES, HONORS AND AWARDS

John Marshall Bar Association

The John Marshall Bar Association is the student bar association affiliated with the Law Student Division of the American Bar Association and The Florida Bar. Membership is open to all law students. JMBA arranges for prominent members of the Bar to address law students. The organization also appoints student members to faculty committees in order to achieve student input into matters of common interest. In addition to service functions, JMBA sponsors many social events throughout the year.

The Council of Ten

The Council of Ten is an organization primarily concerned with the development of new programs of benefit to students at the College of Law. An affiliate of the John Marshall Bar Association, the Council has been recognized by the American Bar Association as the most outstanding organization of its kind among the nation's law schools. Members are selected on the basis of interviews conducted by the Council and approval by the John Marshall Bar Association.

Black Law Student Association

The purpose of BLSA is to provide Black students and other students of similar interest with a means of expressing their views in an orderly and constructive fashion.

This organization also aids in the recruitment of Black students to the law school and provides academic assistance for entering Black students during their period of transition from an undergraduate to a legal academic environment.

Environmental Law Society

ELS is an association open to all students interested in doing legal research on specific projects for environmental groups.

Spanish American Law Student Association

SALSA is an association open to all students interested in a cultural and educational exchange with Latin American law students. The association aids in the recruitment of Latin American students to the law school and provides academic assistance to all members.

Law Association for Women

The Law Association for Women (L.A.W.) is a student organization concerned specifically with the problems and special interest of female law students and with the legal rights of women. Membership is open to all law students, faculty, staff of the law school and spouses of these groups.

Law Wives

The purpose of this organization is to promote a spirit of friendliness among law spouses; to provide more social activities for them; to assist them in obtaining all the benefits to be derived from living in a University center; and to assist the law school and the community whenever possible.

Legal Fraternities

Phi Alpha Delta. Since 1924, the Duncan U. Fletcher Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity has provided a balance of service and social activities for law students, faculty, and alumni. Recent programs include tours of various Florida prisons, a trip to the Florida Supreme Court, and numerous, well-known state and local lecturers.

Phi Delta Phi. Cockrell Inn is the local chapter of the nation's oldest and largest legal fraternity. Inn activities provide a professional and social atmosphere in which members may associate informally with both faculty and Phi Delta Phi alumni members of the Florida bench and bar. Inn members are eligible for scholastic and merit awards, as well as national fraternity benefits such as student loans and group insurance plans. Cockrell Inn conducts rush twice a year and all students are invited to participate.

Delta Theta Phi. The Fred M. Vincent Senate of the Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity was recently re-chartered at the University of Florida in 1982. Though a young chapter, Delta Theta Phi is a growing organization intent upon providing a unique opportunity for students, faculty, and alumni to participate in the development of an alternative social and service fraternity. In the tradition of one of the nation's oldest legal fraternities, the Fred M. Vinson Senate maintains and promotes high standards of both academic and social achievement.

In addition to the organizations mentioned above, the law school also has Law Student Divisions of both The Florida Bar and the American Bar Association.

Moot Court

The Moot Court program currently encompasses participation in state and national appellate competitions. Members are selected by means of intramural competitions conducted every semester. These competitions are open to all students in the two semesters subsequent to their successful completion of Appellate Advocacy.

Each spring semester the Moot Court team sponsors the Annual Cup Competition. This competition is open to all students who have completed Appellate Advocacy. The Cup Competition culminates in a final round in which four competitors argue before a panel of state and federal judges. Plaques, books, awards and money prizes are awarded to the finalists.

Persons selected for Moot Court membership are eligible to participate in a number of inter-collegiate competitions. The National Moot Court Competition is held each fall. Involving virtually all law schools in the United States, the National competition has a regional round in Atlanta, sponsored by the Georgia Bar, and a final competition in New York City sponsored by the Bar of the City of New York.

In the spring, the Univerity of North Carolina at Chapel Hill sponsors a competition in which approximately thirty law schools participate. Also in the spring, The Florida Bar sponsors a statewide competition (won by the University of Florida 14 of the last 22 years) held in conjunction with the annual Bar convention. The final round of argument is held before members of the Supreme Court of Florida.

The Moot Court team at Holland Law Center is named in honor of the late Justice Campbell Thornal of the Florida Supreme Court, a devoted alumnus. Local competitions also receive support from the John Marshall Bar Association.

Moot Court members may earn up to three hours credit toward graduation for work satisfactory to the faculty advisor.

University of Florida Law Review

The University of Florida Law Review is a legal journal published quarterly by the student Editorial Board assisted by the faculty advisor. The publication consists of articles written by legal scholars expert in various areas of the law, and works prepared by student members of the Law Review. All work is selected, edited and prepared for publication by the student Editorial Board. Law Review candidates are selected on the basis of high academic achievement. At the beginning of the second year, the top ten percent of the class satisfactorily completing the first year curriculum is invited to participate on the Review. All other students in good standing who have successfully completed Legal Research and Writing LW 5792 may write in the Open Writing Competition during the first semester of their second year. In addition to the open writing competition, any student may submit a work to compete for publication in the Law Review, but this approach cannot lead to Law Review membership nor can academic credit be given. For regular Law Review participants, up to three hours of academic credit can be earned with approval of the faculty advisor.

Scholastic Honoraries

Order of the Coif

The College of Law has a chapter of The Order of the Coif, a legal scholarship society with chapters at the leading law schools of the country. The purpose of Coif is to foster a spirit of careful study and to mark in a suitable manner those who have attained a high level of scholarship. Election to the society is based on scholarship and character. Eligibility for nomination is determined once each year (normally in June). To be considered for membership, students must be in the upper ten percent of three graduating classes and be eligible for graduation with honors.

Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi is a national honor society, the primary objective of which is the recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all fields of study. Honor graduates within the top ten percent of each class are eligible for nomination.

West Publishing Company Award. – A selected title from the Hornbook series is awarded annually to the member of each class who achieves the highest scholastic average in the class.

Faculty

Nothing is more important for the maintenance of a law school than a faculty composed of capable, experienced and industrious scholars, and a program of salary supplementation is a factor of considerable significance in retaining people of eminence.

Attorneys' Title Insurance Fund Grant. The Lawyers' Title Guaranty Fund, a business trust of Florida lawyers closely affiliated with The Florida Bar, has established an annual grant of $1,000 to supplement the salary of a distinguished professor or professors in the field of real property. The grant is presently held by Professor Mandell Glicksberg.

Stephen C. O'Connell Chair. The first endowed chair at the University of Florida College of Law recongizes the contributions of Stephen C. O'Connell, sixth president of the University of Florida, and former Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court. The O'Connell Chair was held by Visiting Professor Roger A. Cunningham during the 1982 spring semester, by visiting Professor Rennard J. Strickland during the 1983 spring semester, and will be held by Professor Walter Raushenbush in 1983-84.

CURRICULUM

The program of study consists of six semesters or its equivalent of work beginning in the fall or spring semesters of the academic year. As at most law schools, the first year curriculum consists of prescribed courses. The broad purpose of the law school's first year is to teach the student how to read and analyze cases, and how to research points of law efficiently and express them clearly in the context of subject matter basic to the student's future legal education. This objective is to be achieved by offering a range of courses that represent the fields of commerce, personal injury, property, procedure, and public law.

The curriculum is the subject of continuing faculty study. The course offerings listed below govern students commencing their law studies during the 1983-84 academic year:

Fall Class

Fall Semester	CR	Spring Semester	CR	Summer Term (Optional)*	CR
Contracts I	2	Contracts II	3
Torts I	3	Torts II	2
Civil Procedure I	3	Civil Procedure II	2	Property II	3
Criminal Law	3	Property I	2	Constitutional Law II	2
Jurisprudence	3	Constitutional Law I	3	Electives	X
Research & Writing	1	Appellate Advocacy	1
	15		13

*Those students who enter in the fall semester and do not enroll for the summer term immediately following their second semester must take Property II and Constitutional Law II at the first possible opportunity thereafter.

Spring Class

Spring Semester	CR	Summer Term (Required)	CR	Fall Semester	CR
Contracts I	2	Contracts II	3	Electives	X
Torts I	3	Torts II	2	Civil Procedure II	2

	15		7

Spring Semester	CR
Constitutional Law II	2
Electives	X

All spring 1984 entrants are required to attend the summer 1984 term. This requirement insures completion of the first year curriculum at the end of the second semester of study.

Additional Requirements

Legal Writing/Appellate Advocacy Requirement

These courses are graded on the basis of Honors (S+), Satisfactory (S), Deferred Grade (H), or Unsatisfactory (U), and must be completed with a grade of S or better to fulfill the requirement, even if this necessitates repeating both courses.

Students who must repeat either or both of these courses must do so at the first available opportunity after the first year, and failure to do so may result in exclusion from the College of Law. Students must make arrangements for repetition with the Director of the Legal Writing and Research Program. Repeated hours may not be counted toward the minimum load requirement nor toward the 86 hour graduation requirement.

Second and Third Year Requirements

Professional Responsibility Requirement

All students are required to satisfactorily complete LAW 6750, Professional Responsibility and the Legal Profession, in their fourth or fifth semester. For purposes of this latter requirement, the summer term is considered a semester.

Seminar and Advanced Writing Requirement

Each student is required to accomplish a major finished written work as a result of individual research. Effective with the entering class of January, 1981, students must complete this requirement through the vehicle of a seminar. All seminar offerings will afford students the opportunity to complete the advanced writing requirement. The intended purpose of the seminar requirement is to give all students an intense, small group learning experience with close interpersonal contact with faculty and other students. The program should be commenced no later than the fifth semester. Students are also encouraged to enroll in seminars for purposes other than satisfying the advanced writing requirement. Whether an alternative mode of evaluation will be available for those students who do not require advanced writing certification is left to the discretion of the individual faculty member conducting the seminar. No more than 15 students will be permitted in any particular seminar except upon approval of the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs and the professor teaching the seminar.

Students who commenced their studies in the College of Law prior to 1981 may satisfy the advanced writing requirement in any of the following ways: a) through a seminar as set out above; b) by completion of the University of Florida Law Review writing project; c) participation on the Appellate Advocacy Board; or d) through satisfactory completion of an Independent Study Course, approved by the Curriculum Committee.

Effective winter 1983 the advanced writing requirement may be satisfied by the performance of specified editing tasks on the Law Review.

Satisfaction of the advanced writing requirement must be evidenced by the execution of a certificate to that effect by the member of the faculty under whose supervision the writing was done.

Course Offerings by Area

Other than the requirements listed above, second and third year students are free to choose their courses from any area, subject only to prerequisites which may exist. (See Prerequisite Chart.)

To assure exposure to a broad course of study, it is recommended students select a diversity of courses from the following areas. Students should also refer to the Prerequisite Chart and the requirements for degree in planning second and third year course selection.

Each spring the proposed Academic Year Schedule may be obtained from the Administration Office to inform students of the frequency with which courses will be offered. In addition, course descriptions, as well as a curriculum counseling booklet containing the recommendations of legal educators and practitioners in various fields, may be obtained at the library reserve desk.

For all courses or seminars which are designated with variable credit, e.g. 2/3, consult the current Academic Year Schedule to determine the actual credit allocation for any given course or seminar in a particular academic term.

Course Descriptions

Public post-secondary institutions in Florida are required to implement a common course numbering system developed at the state level. The objective is to provide a common classification system for all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary categories and sub-categories based on the professional judgment of the faculties in the given discipline areas.

The course offerings described below are identified by the statewide course numbering system. The statewide course number includes a three-letter prefix and a four-digit number. The three letters identify the general subject matter. The first digit indicates the course level. The next three digits were assigned by the faculty in the approrpriate discipline according to the common course numbering procedures. A blank space indicates that the statewide course number had not been determined at the time of catalog printing.

The University of Florida will accept for full credit all transfer courses that have a common prefix and number as soon as the common numbers become available.

First Year Courses

THE TAX PROGRAM

Master of Laws in Taxation

Admissions: Admission is limited to applicants who have attained the Juris Doctor or equivalent degree from a law school approved by the association of American Law Schools. However, graduates of law schools approved or provisionally approved by the American Bar and graduates of law schools outside the United States may be considered for admission on the basis of outstanding credentials. Admission is determined by the applicant's potential for successful completion of and contribution to the program. Among the factors considered are the quality of the institutions awarding the baccalaureate and law degrees, the applicant's academic record, and significant education, business or professional experience. Geographical factors may also be considered. Candidates who did not attain an honors average in their last two years of baccalaureate work and are not in the upper one-third of their law class will ordinarily be considered not likely to successfully complete the program. With these as the basic criteria, the potential of each applicant is measured against that of other applicants. The same admission criteria apply to applicants for part-time participation in the program. An applicant who does not meet the regular requirements may be considered for conditional admission which generally requires a student to attain a B average for all work attempted (with a minimum of 12 credits) in the first term of the LL.M. program.

An applicant must apply for admission to the Graduate School of the University of Florida, but is not required to take the usual Graduate Record Examination. Forms and bulletins may be obtained from the Director of the Graduate Tax Program, University of Florida, College of Law, Gainesville, Florida 32611. Completed admissions forms should indicate that the applicant is applying for the Graduate Program in Taxation. Those who have ever attended the University of Florida should so indicate. An applicant's questions about the status of his or her admissions application should be directed to Assistant Dean Michael Patrick at (904) 392-2087.

The graduate program in taxation is offered primarily for full-time degree candidates who enroll for an academic year; some find it desirable to stay through the summer term. Courses will usually be conducted by full-time members of the law faculty. The principal objective of the program is to afford comprehensive tax training to lawyers who plan to specialize in taxation practice.

Practicing lawyers occasionally enroll in the program to take several of the courses offered or to seek the LL.M. degree over the permitted five-year period. Some courses are scheduled so that attendance for one day during the week is adequate. Course schedules will always be available a substantial period of time before a term begins. Interested practitioners should therefore apply for admission but defer the payment of fees other than the $15 application fee for persons who were never before University of Florida students. Upon request, course schedules will be mailed when available and at the time the practitioner can complete arrangements for part-time enrollment.

Admission is limited to the fall semester. However, students graduating from the University of Florida who have successfully completed at least four federal tax courses as J. D. students may with the permission of the Tax Faculty be permitted to begin the LL.M. program in the spring or summer terms. See pp. 42,43,61 for registration procedures, fees and expenses and housing information.

Entering LL.M.
in Taxation Awards Financial Aid

Qualified candidates for the LL.M. degree in taxation at the University of Florida College of Law may be eligible for the following awards and positions:

Graduate Fellowships Graduate fellowships, special fellowships for minority and economically desadvantaged, and for women pursuing nontraditional careers are available with stipends from $1,000 to $7,200 for 9 months. All applications must be made by February 15. All recipients of these awards must pay the appropriate Florida or non-Florida tuition waiver. Request forms from the Graduate School, Grinter Hall. Competition for Graduate School Fellowships and Assistantships is University-wide. Those with honors averages or law review experience or both in their J. D. work are encouraged to apply.

Tax Section Scholarship Fund. The Tax Section of the Florida Bar has established a scholarship fund in the amount of $1,500 per year for the Graduate Tax Program. Those who wish to be considered for this scholarship should communicate with the Director of the Program by March 1.

The Richard B. Stephens Scholarship. Scholarship established in honor of the first director of the Graduate Tax Program in the amount of $1,000. The scholarship is awarded at the end of the spring semester by the Graduate Tax Faculty to the overall outstanding student for the year.

Visiting Assistant Professorship. An outstanding LL.M. Candidate is selected for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor in the J. D. tax law curriculum for 9 or 12 months following graduation. The recipient of this position is selected by the Law School Faculty during the Spring Semester based upon his or her outstanding scholarship, potential for teaching, and an expressed desire to contribute to the field of legal education.

Research Assistants, Law. $750 per semester; one-quarter time. Approximately five per semester awarded. Applications may be made at any time, and awards are made whenever well-qualified applicants apply. Application forms for a Research Assistantship may be obtained directly from the Graduate Tax Program.

Waiver of Nonresident Tuition. Each year several highly qualified nonresident students will be awarded non-resident tuition waivers. Approximately $900 per term is saved by a waiver of the $72 per credit hour per term expected to be charged students who are not residents of Florida. It is suggested that students investigate the requirements for residency in the State of Florida before requesting a waiver. No special form is provided. Indicate interest in nonresident tuition waiver to the Director of the Graduate Tax Program by March 1.

Loans. Long-term and short-term loans ranging from $1,000 to $2,500 per year, payable after termination of enrollment, are available to graduate students at interest rates below the market. For information and application, write Student Financial Affairs, 111 Anderson Hall, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida 32611. See also p. 60 for information regarding short term loans.

Requirements for Degree – LL.M. in Taxation

The degree LL.M. in Taxation will be awarded upon the satisfactory completion of twenty-four semester credit hours of instruction, twenty of which are in designated tax courses, including the accomplishment of a research and writing project pursued throughout that period of instruction. Normally the period of instruction is the academic year, but the degree may be earned on a part-time basis over a period not exceeding five years. Examinations are given on a cumulative, comprehensive basis, and students who earn their degrees over a period of more than three consecutive semesters must pass a special comprehensive examination in the term in which they receive the degree.

Students are encouraged to extend their period of study to three terms. Regardless of the term in which students begin their study, they must attend the fall and spring terms in order to graduate.

Credit hours may be earned by a C (2.0) grade, but 3.0 grade point average on a four-point scale is required for the LL.M. degree, in accordance with Graduate School regulations.

Placement services are available through the Tax Office and through the J. D. placement office. Graduate tax students are asked to register with both offices so that placement inquiries may be handled efficiently through each office.
